The Commercial Bulletin of the 10th says of the consolidation of the Open Board and Stock Exchange: dation was completed by a unanimous SADDLERY HARDWARE, wote of the old Board, and by a nearly unanimous vote of the Open Board, each having held an executive session for that purpose. The name of the new organization will be the New York Stock Exchange into which both boards will be merge on Tuesday next, after that day all dos ings will be conducted in the Stock Ex change building, with the different sessions as recently regulated by the old

For the present, at least the rules of the old Stock Exchange and govern the new organization. It has, however, been determined that the government of the new Board shall rest in a committee of forty, twelve of which are to be taken from the Open Board member . An election for the choice of this committee will be held on Monday next, The new consolidated Board will start on Tuesday next, with 1030 members, and with a common fund-made up the money now in the Treasury of each Board-of about $800 000. The consolidation marks an important era in Wall street, and it is believed will greatly facilitate business.

There was some inquiry in this market, but-owing to limited offerings sales were confined to about 450 bales-the principal sale being one of 148 bales Strict Low Middlings, or Liverpool Middlings, at 27c. Several small lots were taken at irregular rates, among them A RARE OPPORTUNITY one or two of Middlings as high as 28%. This grade is very firm and scarce, and

The Financial Chronicle of the 8th thus ports the state of trade at Manchester, the manufacturing center of Bagland: The present has been one of the dullest weeks since the beginning of the year, and the sales have been much under the production. The flatness in Liverpool has communicated itself to this market, and although prices of both yarn and cloth have given way, buyers have shown the greatest indifference about giving out ders. To-day the tone of the market as been no worse, and a few more inquiries have been made. Producere have ousequently been induced to hope that little more business may be forthcoming, but those transactions which have courred have been almost invariably at prices lower than either spinners or man-ufacturers would submit to on Tuesday. The position of trade is most disheartening to producers, as, notwithstanding the great decrease in the production, the remand seems to fall off in much the same proportion. In Blackburn alone, exclusive of the outlying mills in the neighberhood, there are at least twenty others with machinery partially stopped, and yet manufecturers experience no sensible relief. Neither in cotton nor in yarn is the decline equal to what has ta-ken place in cloth, if makers are necessited to sell. So far they have not forced sales, but in the absence of business stocks have a tendency to increase, and business may only be brought about y holders being obliged to give way and cept prices which involve them in seous losses, in addition to those which bey have already borne. No doubt in the course of time the decrease in ship-ments since last October will bring about a better condition of things; but in the meantime the crisis which the trade of the district is passing through is most severe, and presses heavily on all who are engaged in it, including manufacturers, shippers and operatives.

CHAS. GOODWIN. The decline at this point begins to iminish its gait, as the late swell in the but a momentary one; already it should be falling again at Cairo. Our telegraphic coinmas contain the latest advices from that point, as well as others along the Onio and from St. Louis. The Arkansas and White Rivers are decili ing, or were at lest report. The late rains will, we have no doubt, cause au-other swell in both these streams. A neavy rain fell nearly all day yes erday, and the air is raw and chilly.

The St. Louis Republican of Wedness rall, although very slowly. The decline yesterday was about 1½ inches. The Difinols river is at good stage to Peoris. The Upper Mississippi river continues to swell slowly at Dubuque and above. Missiuri river is stationary at Lexington and Kansas City, and supposed to be slightly rising above St. Joseph, to Omaha and at Sloux City. Reports from the mountain fleet are meager, and no one seems to have any idea how the advanced portion is progressing.

We also noticed that the river water was running out through the gutters of the city. Verily may it be said with candor that high water is in the secent. and may perhaps before its fall give us one or two disastrous crevasses, which our planters and others do not harbor by suy means. We noticed the Surveyor's mark last evening and found the river within one inch of the rise of 1862. The St. Louis Grain Delegation went North yesterday on the Belle St. Louis. Capt. J. W. Parker, formerly captain of the Northern Line boat, Dubuque, and more lately transfer sgent at Duouque, under the Illinois Central, was lately presented by that Company with a check for $3000 for faithful service. Au under current of pure, clear water has been discovered in the Missouri river.
